

Introducing our Performers

Marcel van Helden is a tenor who shows great promise in a wide variety of repertoire, ranging from the baroque works of Bach and Handel to the heavier works of Wagner and Beethoven. Marcel is currently studying voice in the Artistic diploma program at Western University under the tutelage of Torin Chiles. Along with numerous solo recitals Marcel has Chris Miller was born in London, UK lived in South Africa for 30 years, whilst emceeing a concert he watched a famous SA comedian, Pip Freedman perform the darts act, he decided this would be a fun act to copy and he did.. He is now semi retired but busy with church and other charity work. Chris loves making people laugh. He loves traveling having been all over the world with more to come.

Sasha Daleman began her violin studies at the age of 4. She is currently studying Violin at McMaster University with Sonia Vizante. While in high school, she played with the Kitchener Waterloo Youth Orchestra program under the baton of Daniel Bartholomew Poyser and sang with the Grand Philharmonic Youth Choir directed by Amanda Brunk. In July 2016, the choir traveled to Venice, Croatia, and Slovenia to perform in several historic venues and churches.

Knox Church Choir is ably led by Pat Kerr our choir director and leader.. The Choir is composed of a fun loving group who like to sing.

The Hazzard family consists of Jake, Walter, and father Kevin. Jake is an accomplished trombonist and pianist who currently teaches at the Acton music studio, Walter plays trumpet, piano, clarinet, and plays cornet in the Acton citizen's band and school band. Kevin is an accomplished vocalist who sings at many community events and Churchill community church.

Alex and Andrew Hilson have been performing live for fourteen years since their first school talent show. The arrangements and instruments have changed plenty but they always seek to keep their songs high energy and fun. They've performed at the Georgetown Fall Fair, Acton's Leathertown Festival and came in second for the United Way of Halton Hills "Eudaimania" contest.

Paul F. Latour is the local juggling accountant. He has been juggling for fun for the past three (3) years. This is the first formal "show", you can usually find him juggling in the park when weather co-operates. He started juggling when his brother asked for a juggling partner and on occasion had a few other jugglers in the Acton town hall.

Leanne Monaghan – Staying Alive Fitness. Leanne has always made fitness an important priority in her life – even more so after being diagnosed with cancer in 2002. Leanne offers seminars and fitness classes to the community.

Heather Mascaran always had a strong passion for music & dance. I have taken hip hop and jazz choreography off and on through out the years, as I had also taken acrobats & gymnastics. The older I had become, the more I was in tune with the rawest form of dancing, which is called freestyling. She has developed different styles of dancing and hopes that he passion for dance will become contagious.

Susannah McKenzie Sutter is a classical violinist and traditional fiddle player. She is studying music at Memorial University in Newfoundland under Canadian violinist Nancy Dahn. Susanna an aspiring music educator and is a member of a camber orchestra, a two-piece folk band. For the last few years Susann has been teaching violin out of several studios. Working with children and youth in collaborative music settings is something
